

Visit my page and gallery on DeviantArt, at: <http://troythulu.deviantart.com/> and <http://troythulu.deviantart.com/gallery/> ,where alien cityscapes harbor eldritch horrors from beyond and warships of powerful interstellar empires ply the stars in search of victory in the heat of battle.

From the simple to the complex, from the bizarre to the interesting, these images are a way to express a love for art, science, and mathematics in a way that I find fun, and that you may find unique and intriguing.

From the beginning of merely creating personal art for blogs, this has developed to the point, with plenty of room to grow, of images, from years of practice and improvement to the craft.

Many of these images are available as free full-sized file downloads and sold as print products to enhance walls, gift cards for whatever occasion suits the image selected, or items such as magnets, mugs, and mousepads for those with a taste for something more tangible than a cool wallpaper for the desktop of choice.

Stop by to poke around if you like, and take a look at what's available to download and for sale! Got a question? Have a critique to offer for this budding artist's work? Drop me a line at troythulu@gmail.com, or comment on DeviantArt. Also, if you're a member of the site, you can Watch the page for further releases as they're posted!

I may also be found on Twitter @Troythulu, on Blogger at <https://troythulu.blogspot.com/>, on Tumblr at <https://troythulu.tumblr.com/>.